PREFACE.

THE name Merstham has been variously spelt. The topographer Salmon, writing in 1736, calls it Mestham, but he adds that it was anciently spelt with an r as now. Mr. Thomas Fisher, churchwarden for eighteen years, has letters addressed to him with the name spelt in thirty-nine different ways.

In the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries we find it written Meyrstan, Merystham, and Marstham, but in Domesday Book it is Merstan. Many of the ancient inhabitants call it Mestam to this day, and do not sound the "th". Spelling, however, being formerly phonetic, we must turn our attention rather to the sound than to the letters. The derivation is probably from the word "Mére," defined as a marsh land or boggy swine-walk; and "stan," a stone, or house of stone. The situation and the fact of the lord's rent being paid in hogs, affords a considerable presumption in favour of this view, in preference to another possible derivation, viz., from the word "Moer," a boundary.

As appears by Domesday Book, it was held by the Archbishop "de vestitu monachorum," presumed to mean for the clothing of the monks of Canterbury. There was a church and a mill and eight acres of pasture, and the lord's rent was twenty-five fat hogs and sixteen lean ones. The living is still in the gift of the Archbishop of Canterbury, and was one of his peculiars.*

We gather something of the nature of the country in the time of Edward I. from the fact of his having in the year 1383 granted the right of free-warren of his lands at Merstham and various places in Kent and Sussex to one Edmund de Passeleye, but reserving the King's own rights within the Forest.

In Vol. IV. of the Surrey Archaeological Society, 1869, is an inventory of the goods and ornaments of the churches in the county of Surrey in the reign of Edward VI., communicated by "A catalogue, topographically arranged, of the inventories of the goods and ornaments in the several churches and chapels of the realm, as they were found by the various bodies of commissioners appointed to make inquiry concerning them, in the sixth year of King Edward the Sixth; and also of the indentures of the delivery of such goods and ornaments as were allowed to remain in the hands of the churchwardens for the use of the several churches; and in respect of some of the parishes of other documents connected with the proceedings of the commissioners".

THE CHURCH.

The earliest and chief part of the existing fabric dates from the end of the twelfth century, being the period when pointed architecture emerged from the round-arched Norman style. It is dedicated to S. Katherine. The site, half surrounded by trees and backed by a steep hill, is most happily chosen, and the building itself is more than ordinarily picturesque.

The structure consists of west tower, nave and aisles, with south porch, chancel and north and south chantries under separate roofs, with two choir vestries, the clergy built in 1861 and the choir in 1895. The dimensions of the nave are 43 feet by 18 feet 9 inches. The north aisle is 7 feet 8 inches wide, and the south 7 feet 5 inches; the chancel measures 28 feet 9 inches by 17 feet 8 inches. A good south-east view of the church is given in Brandon's Parish Churches, and also a ground plan; there is a south-west view in Cracklow's Surrey Churches, and a picture of the west doorway in Surrey Archaeological Collections, Vol. III.

Entering at the west doorway we find the tower little altered, except in details of mouldings; the doorway, for example, has suffered from a severe cleaning, almost amounting to a re-cutting, about forty years ago, but the design exhibits considerable character. The outer arch is enriched with the "dog-tooth" ornament, an unfailing indication of this style of architecture in England, but here cut in a chamfer, which is unusual; the doorway beneath is round—trefoil-headed under a pointed arch. The mouldings of the hood or dripstone indicate a date not earlier than the middle of the fifteenth century.

This doorway bears a considerable resemblance to that in the north transept of the neighbouring church of Chipstead, and to one in the tower at Cliffe at Hoo, near Gravesend. Lancet windows light the tower, and are original, notwithstanding the modern appearance given by careless scraping. A perpendicular window has been put in the west over the doorway for the purpose of giving more light, and the tower has been strengthened by buttresses on the outside.

The following are some remarks on the architecture of the church by Rev. G. M. Livetts: "There are sufficient fragments of Norman work of an advanced type to prove that a transition Norman church existed on or near the same site. I. The font. 2. Three arch stones, showing two rows of zigzag. 3. The acanthus-leaf caps, of rude design, inserted into the Early English chancel-arch. The Norman church, however, contrary to custom, must have been entirely demolished if it stood on the same site to make way for the Early English building. Not only does the Early English church, i.e., the existing church-minus chapels, and porch, and inserted windows-show no sign of having been grafted on to an earlier edifice, but it contains signs that it was built afresh from the ground. For instance, the walls above the arcade of the nave do not show the irregularities commonly seen in cases in which early walls have been pierced and underbuilt. Again, in a Norman church without central tower, or aisles, the chancel-arch wall is generally of the same thickness as the nave walls, never less, here it is three or four inches thinner than the arcade walls, and of the same thickness as the aisle walls. This proves, in my opinion, the contemporaneous unity of the aisle walls and chancel-arch wall, and also of the nave arcade. Again, the abacus of the southern inserted cap of the chancel-arch has been apparently altered to conformity with the abacus of the north arcade of the nave. On the whole, I incline to a rather late date for the Early English work, say 1230 or 1240. The mouldings of the arcade might agree with an earlier date, but as there is every reason to believe the restoration of the clerestory lights to be faithful to the originals, the date is not likely to have been as early as 1200. The design of these lights is excellent. The Early English builders did not abandon the use of circular-headed openings (there are several such in the choir of Rochester Cathedral) where structural exigencies did not demand the pointed form. The chisel tooling of the quoins and arch stones of these lights is identical with that of the lancets in the tower as seen on the inside. That of the Norman fragments show the use of the axe, not the chisel. I saw at least one stone in the quoin jamb of the chancel arch which showed slight remains of the axe marks, tending to prove that the Early English builders re-axed and re-faced the Norman materials. Apart from the evidence of the arcade, the remains of the lancet in the west wall of the north aisle, suffices to give an Early English date to the aisle wall. The pilaster-like buttress at the south-west corner of the south aisle I take to be Early English. It is bevelled, and, if I remember right, a similar splay (without buttress) exists at the north-east corner of the chancel. Probably all the corners were originally so bevelled. The internal wall arcade of the chancel is sufficient to give it an Early English date."

Passing in to the church through a fine tower arch, we find the nave and aisles parted by a row of three arches on each side, over which is a clerestory—an unusual feature in a small building of the date of this church. The capitals are well moulded; the arches simply recessed and chamfered.

The clerestory windows are set over the piers instead of being over the arches, as was more frequent then, and invariable at a later date; those at each end are round trefoils, the others quatrefoils; they are set close to the exterior surface of the wall, and have internally a semi-circular-headed splay. The aisle walls and the pitch of its roof were raised, this brought the clerestory windows within the church. Before the second restoration of 1875 they were to be seen externally, but were useless for purposes of light. The stained glass quarterings have been taken from the South Chapel and placed in the windows.

The font is of Sussex marble, of a form common at the period, having a square bowl, supported by a central cylinder and four circular shafts, the whole resting on a square base. There is a similar example at Shere, in Surrey. A cut of it is given in the Handbook for Reigate.

On entering the chancel the arch beneath which we pass is well deserving of attention, from the sculptured foliage of the capitals.

At the date when this arch was built all traces of classic art were disappearing from the style prevalent in England, while in France its influence always continued perceptible, except during a century of the most perfect period of the Gothic style. The present example of sculptured foliage, resembling acanthus leaves, is so different from what one is accustomed to see in England, and so like what was usual in France, that the hypothesis of its being the work of a French designer or carver readily occurs to the mind.

The wooden screens or parcloses which fenced in the chancel were of perpendicular date, of fair average work, but no special merit; that between the north aisle and the chantry was still later. These have all been swept away during a restoration, so called, of the church in 1860. Part of the oak was saved, and used by the Right Hon. Lord Hylton to form a screen for the priests' door, and part was worked up into an umbrella stand by the late churchwarden, P. L. Pelly, Esq.

Brandon, whose authority upon any point of Gothic work stands deservedly high, states the north chantry roof to be of decorated date, i.e., of the fourteenth century, but others think it is of fifteenth century or perpendicular style. Sir Gilbert Scott considered it perfect of its kind, and eulogised the one window in the north side, and said most modern architects would have added another. The windows here and throughout the church (except the tower and clerestory) are of rather later perpendicular date. Beneath an arch in the north wall of the north chapel at the spot usually occupied by a founder's burial place, is a high tomb to the memory of John Elinebrygge, who died in the year 1473. This is called the Albury Chapel, and belonged to the lords of that manor. The south chapel belonged to the owners of the Alderstead estate. The south chantry is designed with more elegance, and has a good "priests' door"; the east window contains some fragments of original stained glass, amongst which are figures of the Blessed Virgin and Child, S. Peter, and another saint. In the south wall is a triangular piscina, the sloping sides arched; it is unusually small, measuring only 12 inches wide by 7 inches high and 4 inches deep.

Before the formation of the two chantry chapels and the arches by which they open to the chancel, the walls of the latter presented a constructional arcade of high pointed early English arches resting on shafts, and occupying the whole of the side walls; portions remain. Such an arcade is very rarely met with, but a similar example occurs in the north side of the chancel at Merton, and in the tower and transept at Cliffe. The east window is a large one of later date, and has been filled with good stained glass in memory of the first Baron Hylton, by Messrs. Powell, of Whitefriars Glass Works. There is a very elegant double piscina, with flat trefoil-headed arches and a central shaft. Beautiful foliage covered the projecting basins, but the delicacy of the moulding has been spoilt by a severe scraping about forty years ago.

It will be seen that the church presents some very distinct architectural peculiarities, and all of them occur in one or other of the neighbouring churches of Chipstead and Merton, and at Cliffe at Hoo, in Kent. Chipstead resembles it in the form of doorway and the "dog-tooth" worked on a chamfer, in its clerestory, wall arcading and porch; Cliffe has a similar west tower, clerestory, nave arcade and wall arcading; Merton in its lancet and wall arcading ; while all have unusually narrow chamfers.

These features on comparison present a character so strongly marked as to raise the presumption that all these churches were designed by one architect. To Sir G. E. Street is due the credit of having first broached this theory.

The church was once extensively decorated with paintings, which have been smothered with whitewash and completely obliterated.

On the west pillar at the south side of the nave was a small figure of a bishop, doubtless of a saint, in the attitude of benediction; east of the chancel arch on the same side was a painting of the Blessed Virgin and Child, both dating probably from the first half of the fifteenth century. Traces of painting were also visible along the whole wall of the south aisle, of which the most distinct figure was that of a man drawing a sword, and disappeared when the wall was rebuilt, being much out of the perpendicular, in the year 1874-5.

Mr. Palgrave suggests that the series might have represented the history and martyrdom of S. Katherine, but others think that as one of the direct routes of the famous pilgrimages to Canterbury to the shrine of S. Thomas à Becket passes through this parish, and is known as "The Pilgrim's Way," the painting may have represented his death or martyrdom. Extract from Pal-grave's Handbook to Reigate, Merstham Church: "The south aisle wall was in old times covered with frescoes, but they are now well-nigh obliterated by the combined effects of whitewash, rough usage, hat pegs, and inscriptions relating to parish overseers. As S. Katherine is the patroness of this church, it seems likely that designs illustrative of her story would be found here; if this be so, the eastermost compartment represents the first act of her martyrdom, where an angel descending from heaven broke in pieces the instruments of torture. The figures to the right, if these shadowy relics may thus be designated, with hands uplifted, and faces upturned, would form the astonished spectators of the miraculous interposition; more in the centre appears the persecuting tyrant Maximin, distinguished by a crown and shield. The central compartment is sadly destroyed, but the forms of a colossal Virgin and Child are just traceable. The third division of the frescoes would represent the Saint's death by beheading, if the soldier drawing his sword may be thus interpreted. Against one of the piers of the chancel arch is a small representation of the Virgin and Child stencilled in red."

These tracings were removed in 1861 when the high pews were cut down and the walls plastered and ruled in imitation of masonry of large stones, at the same time the brasses were arbitrarily removed from their places, and one of them was removed from beside his wife. In 1893-4 £215 was spent upon the church spire.

A new vestry for the clergy was also built, which, together with the above alterations, cost about $f_{1,000}$. The chancel was finished in the time of the Rev. A. J. Pearman. In 1895 a new choir vestry was added to the clergy vestry at a cost of f_{124} .

With the consent of the Right Hon. Lord Hylton the organ was moved from the west end to the south chapel, and a new stop was added in 1896. The cost was defrayed by subscriptions, and amounted to f_{46} 10s.

A lych gate was given by Mrs. Stacey and her family in 1897, made from the old oak of the mill, and was dedicated on Easter Day.

THE BELLS.

Five bells constitute the peal, the oldest bears a black-letter legend, with the words :---

+ Sancta Katerina ora pro nobis, a not uncommon inscription, examples occurring in various parts of the country, but in the present instance probably adopted in accordance with the dedication of the church.

Another bell informs us :---

+ Robertus + Mot + me + fecit + 1597.

Robert Mot was a predecessor of Messrs. Mears, of Whitechapel, and died in March, 1608.

The next in point of date immortalises the churchwardens as well as the founder, thus :---

+ Bryan Eldridge made mee 1643.

Nicholas Best; Richard Sharp, churchwardens.

Bryan Eldridge was a Chertsey founder of more than local repute; upwards of fifty bells with his name remain in the adjoining county of Sussex alone, as well as others elsewhere.

THE PARISH REGISTERS.

The Parish Registers were well kept, and continue in good preservation; they date back to the thirtieth year of King Henry VIII., 1538-39.

The names of both father and mother were at first usually given, and in 1559 and a few subsequent years the names of the godfather and godmother were added.

In 1541 and 1542 the entry of baptism states not that the child was baptised, but that it was "borne" at such a date. In 1570 and 1571 the expression "joyned in matrimony" is substituted for the usual form.

After the year 1638 the writing is very bad, and the entries are but few. In 1650 children are stated to be "borne" instead of being baptised, and about this date the register becomes evidently very imperfect.

On the 28th November, 1653, John Monday was sworn to execute the office of a "Register" in the parish, pursuant to the Act of Parliament, 24th August, 1653 (i.e., held during the interregnum), according to the best of his skill and ability, which does not appear to have been very great. This state of affairs continued until 1660, when John Harris signs the books as rector, and from that date the entries are well and apparently carefully written until 1680, whence to 1695 they are very imperfect; from the latter year downwards they are in excellent order.

Among the surnames in the sixteenth century there frequently occur several rather peculiar, such as Napkin, Gawton, Placeto, and Bristow; and the change in religious sentiment in the latter part of the same century is shown by some of the Christian names which supersede those previously in use : Patience, Millicent, Prudence, Christabell, Mercy, and Judeth will serve for examples.

Several certificates to his Majesty about touching for the evil are given, beginning with two in 1673. To one granted to George, son of William Palmer, in 1676-7, the record adds: "y^e father and his son Harry touch^d before".

The collections made by virtue of briefs are at one time entered. In 1740, between 26th October and 21st December inclusive, were no less than eight briefs producing from $8\frac{3}{4}d$. to 6s. 3d. The amounts were always small, and varied from 5d. upwards; one house-to-house visitation produced 6s. 8d.

The unhappy pew system gave rise to strife and heart-burning here as elsewhere. On the 10th of June, 1734, the curate wrote formally to the churchwardens (and considered his letter sufficiently important to enter in the church books) to take immediate care that those farmers who pay to church and poor have quiet and peaceable possession of the several seats and pews in the church, of right belonging (as he recites) to their respective farms, and that the people may be duly accommodated without any illegal additions or alterations or new charges upon this poor parish, there being to his certain knowledge still room enough for all the congregation. This exhortation produced so little effect that on the 14th November, 1736, a formal application was made to Dr. Bettesworth, the visitor of the archbishop, complaining of certain scandalous persons, in reference to the same subject.

THE MONUMENTS.

The oldest monument is a very mutilated stone effigy of a civilian, probably Nicholas Jamys, a London mercer, and one of the four representatives of the City of London in 1415 in the Parliament held at Westminster in Henry V.'s reign, with gypciere, dating between 1420 and 1430; it is life-size, and bears traces of red paint upon the coat. It is said to have been discovered about eighty-five years ago, having till then been turned face downwards, and forming part of the pavement of the north chantry in 1896. Underneath it were found, by Ernest White, three shields which have been submitted to Heralds College for identification with the following result :---

1.... 3 swans ... (Swanland or Bawdripe) and in a canton ... a chevron ... within a bordure engrailed ... (Holme, Hulyn or Kymberly).

2. . . 3 lion's paws . . . (Wetherton, Witherton, Hewett, Noolegate or Harfield).

3. Chequy . . . (Ellinbridge or Elmbridge) impaling Lozengy . . . and on a chief . . . a satire . . . charged with 5 bezants (Overton).

Next to the high tomb in the recess in the north chantry is a brass to the memory of John Elinebrygge, with the following inscription, in black letters :---

"Hic jacent Johannes Elnebrygge armiger, qui obiit viij die Feburarii Anno Domini MCCCCLxxxiij et Isabella Uxor ejus que fuit filia (1) Nicholai Jamys quondam majoris et alderman: London, que obiit viij die Septembris Anno Dñi. MCCCCLxxij et Anna Uxor ejus fuit filia Johannis Prophete Gentilman: que obiit (2) (blank) Anno Dñi. MCCCC. (blank) quorum animebus propicietur Deus."

Above were the three figures, but that of John has been long wanting; he was in civil costume, though described as esquire. The two wives are precisely alike both in figure and costume, and show that the brass was laid down at the death of the husband. It often happened, as in this case, that the date of the survivor's death was never filled in. From the mouths of the effigies proceed scrolls, bearing the legend :—

"Sancta Trinitas-Unus Deus-Miserere nobis."

Beneath is a group of seven daughters, with "butterfly headdresses" (a cut is given in the Handbook for Reigate), and a group of eleven sons is lost.

The Elinebrygge family was settled at a place of the same name, a chapelry in the parish of Doderhill, in Worcestershire, in the thirteenth century. There is a greater variety than usual in the mode of spelling the name, and the monument next mentioned, and dated 1507, where the inscription is to Thomas Elinerugge alias dic? Thoms Elyngbrigge, shows that they were then uncertain of their own patronymic. The following are examples of the mode in which it was variously spelt: Ellerug, Elmerugge, Elmebrugge, Elmridge, Elmbrige, Elmebrigge, Ellmbridge, Elinrugge, Ellyngbrugg, Elenbrig, Elingbrig, Elyngbrigge, Ellyngbrigg, Ellynbrege, Elinebrigge.

The arms of the family are checky, argent and sable. It will be seen by the above inscription that only seventeen months elapsed between the decease of this John Elinebrigge's first wife and his own decease, he having married a second time in the interval. The second wife afterwards married Sir William Pecche of Lullingstone, in Kent, whom she also survived.

A brother of this John was Roger Elinebrugge, Esquire; while a young man he was nominated Sheriff of the counties of Surrey and Sussex in the year 1437, but he died almost immediately after receiving that appointment, on the Feast of St. Clement (23rd November), 1437, and was buried at Beddington, in Surrey, where he is commemorated by an effigy in brass, with the arms of the family and others, and his head rests upon a tilting helmet, with a gryphon's head for a crest.

Among the children of John by his first wife Isabella was his son Thomas, who resided at Carshalton, and was a Justice of the Peace; he held the office of "Hostiarius" (? gentleman porter) to Cardinal Morton, Archbishop of Canterbury. By his will he gives directions for his burial at Carshalton Church, near the place where his wife Elizabeth was buried, and he bequeaths f_{220} sterling towards his "buriall". He appoints certain land which he purchased of "Newdegate" to the Church of Carshalton for "an obite ther yerely to be kepte for ev_{C} and specially certayn almes to be yeven yerely in redy money amongis the pour people than beyng at my saide obite to pray for my sowle, my wife's sowle, my faders sowle and moder ppetually ".

He bequeaths f_{100} to his daughter Margaret, and appoints his sister Johanne Burton and her husband, Henry Burton, with two others, to be executors; and bequeaths all his "horsis" to the said Henry Burton. He died on the 22nd May, 1497, and his will was proved on the 23rd October in the same year.

His wife Elizabeth was the daughter of Nicholas Gaynesford, Esquire for the body of Edward IV. and Henry VII., and his wife Margaret was one of the "gentilwommen" to their two Queens respectively named Elizabeth. They are commemorated by a brass at Carshalton Church, but the dates of their deaths are left blank.

Thomas Elynbrigge was buried at Carshalton according to his directions, but his effigy and that of his wife in brass were stolen about fifty-five years ago; the arms of Elynbrigge and Gaynsford remain.

Another of the children of John, and a sister of Thomas, was Johanne Burton, above mentioned; she married, first, Richard Fromond, of Fromond, Kent; and second, Henry Burton; and died on the 23rd December, 1523, and is commemorated by a brass at Carshalton. Thomas's son and heir was also named Thomas; he resided at Merstham, where is his effigy with that of his wife on a brass, with the following inscription, in black letter:—

Hic jacent Thoms Elinerugge armiger alias dict. Thoms Elyngbrigge filius et heres Thome Elinerugge, et Johanne uxor ejus, qui quidem Thomas obit XXVII die marcii A° Dñi M° V^c vii quorum animabus ppicietur Deus. Amen.

Underneath were six children, three boys and three girls, but they have disappeared.

By his will he directs that he should be buried in the "North Chauncell win the Church of Meryshm afore the pictur of Mary Magdalen". The brass was in the floor of that chancel or chantry in the time of Manning and Bray, but now no longer marks the place of his burial, having been removed to the centre chancel. He bequeaths to the Church of "Cauntbury" three shillings and four pence; to the "high aulter of or lady of Merysthm $3^{s} 4^{d}$, and to the repacon of the church 10s.". After other similar gifts, he bequeaths $33^{s} 4^{d}$ for a priest "he is to syng for my soule, my faders and all my frends soules named in the bedroll during the tyme and space of oon $q\bar{r}$ ter of a yere. If. I will that two taps off wax shall brynne at myñ herse during the space of xxx daies that is to say 'fyve pounds wax in both taps". Also 26s. 8d. for 'twoo obitts' yearly for ten years the 1st on the Monday after the Assumption, and the 2nd upon S^t Valentine's day, to be performed by the curate and 7 priests; and a residue of the sum to be given to poor people in 'brede and ale'."

His estates he leaves to his wife for life: and he mentions the Ellyngbrigg lands in the west counties; these were in Worcestershire.

The will concludes thus: "To this my present testament and last will—Witness God Almighty and our blessed Lady w^h all the hole convent of hevey, and in erthe my gostly fader John Johnson preste the day and yere aforesaid" (26 March 1507.) He died on the same day and the will was proved on the 23^{rd} April following.

He is represented in armour, with head and hands bare and without spurs. His wife wears the ordinary costume of the period. Of four shields of arms the dexter only remains and has been let into the Elinibryge tomb for safety, having been discovered in 1896 under the stone figure with two other lead plates. It bears checky ar. and sa. imp. checky lozengy . . . and . . . on a chief . . . a saltire . . . charged with 5 roundlets.

From him the estate passed by his daughter and heiress Ann to her husband Sir John Dannet, of Dannet Hall, Leicestershire; she survived and died 17 March 1577 and was buried at Merstham. In the registry are entries of burials of servants to "my lady Danett" in 1558, 1560 and 1561.

The next monument is a small brass effigy and inscription to one of the old and widely spread family of Newdegate, of Astley Castle and Arbury Park in Warwickshire, Harefield in Middlesex, and Newdegate and New Place near Reigate. The inscription in black letter runs thus: "Hic jacet Johēs Newdegate, armiger, nup dno de Herfeld in Com Midd q^r obiit xxi^o die mens Februarii A^o dni M^o cccc^o lxxxxviii F A^o regni reg Hen vii xiiij cù arē piciet de."

The manor of Harefield, Middlesex, was acquired by the family in the fourteenth century. The effigy is very small and ill-proportioned; in armour, with the head resting on the helmet for a pillow. The Newdegate arms are: gu. three lion's gambes erased, ar.

His son (apparently) was also named John, and was a serjeant-at-law. The latter by his will bequeaths to his "son and heir-apparent a standing cupp with a cover of silver that was my faders, and also a cheyne of gold weying fourty pounds and more".

Another brass represented Peter and Richard Best, two children of Nycolas Best, of Alderstead, a house in the parish of Merstham. It has this inscription :---

"Here lyeth the bodyes of Peter Best and Rychard Best his brother sonnes of Nycolas Best and Elizabeth his wyfe of Alderstead in y^e parryshe of Merstham in the countie of Surrey w^{ch} Peter deceased the xiith day of August A^o Dīi 1585. And the said Rychard his brother deceased the xxiith of June A^o Dīi 15⁸7."

One of the children, that on the dexter side, and probably Peter, the elder of the two, is represented as a little child; the other effigy, as stated by the clerk in 1845, was stolen six or seven years before that date by a "gentleman" whom he left in the church rubbing the brasses; but it is engraved in the Rev. Herbert Haines' admirable Manual of Monumental Brasses (at p. 219) from a rubbing made with Richardson's composition, which was only invented in the summer of 1844; from which we may infer that the brass is probably still in existence.

It may be added that through the kindness of Edwin Freshfield, D C.L., who possessed a rubbing, a copy had been made to replace the stolen brass. It represents an infant in swaddling clothes, as a "chrisome". According to the custom of the period, an infant was anointed with chrism (oil) and bound up like a mummy, and so kept until the churching of the mother at the end of the month, when the swaddling cloth, called a chrisom cloth, was presented at the altar; and it was directed by the constitutions of Archbishop Edmund, A.D. 1226, that "Panni chrismales non nisi in usum Ornamentorum Ecclesiae convertantur". In the office of Baptism in the Prayer Book of second Edward VI., 1549, the "white vesture, commonly called Preface.

the crisome," is especially required to be placed upon the child. Shakespeare alludes to the practice in relating the death of Falstaff, by the mouth of Mrs. Quickly :---

"'A made a fine end and went away an it had been any christom child."

In entries of burials in parish registers the term may still be met with as late as 1722, and the custom of enveloping children in that manner prevails over the greater part of the Continent of Europe at the present day. The baptism and burial of Peter Best are thus entered in the parish register of Merstham :—

"Peter Best the sonne of Nicholas Best was baptised the 3^d of July 1585."

"Peter Best y^e sonne of Nicholas Best of Aldersted (buried) y^e 12th of August 1585" (the day of his death).

The baptism of Richard occurs, but there is no entry of his burial :---

"Richard Best y^e sonne of Nicholaus Best of Alderstead was baptized the 6th daye of August 1586."

The family of Best was very extensive, and the name constantly appears in the parish registers here, besides stray branches in the neighbouring parishes.

The register records the baptism on the 9th March, 1554, of Nicholas Best, probably the person mentioned on the brass as the father of the children commemorated; and his father Robert, described as of the Court Lodge, which stood in the meadow between the church and the village, a little to the south of Merstham House, was buried in 1563. In 1625 one of the same name joined with the church-wardens in attesting the "readingin" of a new Rector; and a Nycolas Best was the churchwarden in 1643, as appears by the inscription on the bell.

One of the Best family, who was buried at Chipstead in 1534, left by his will "oone shepe" to the "hye autar of Chepsted" and others to Merstham, Gatton and Chaldon. Another of the family, resident at Carshalton, in 1528 bequeathed to his son "a grete cawdiron and a payres of shetts; a latten bason and a candlestyke".

In the chancel on a black marble tablet incased in white, on the north wall, in capitals, is this inscription :---

Preface.

Norvicus Spackman é Civitate Wigornia, patre Tho. Spackmanno Doctore medico natus, liberalibus disciplinis institutus in Gymnasio Wigorniensi primo tum Æde Christi Oxoniæ, ubi et Magistrali gradu claruit, et Procuratoria dignitatæ quum annos sex hanc rexisset Ecclesiam, tam vitâ probus quam concionibus disertus, in ipso ætatis store occubuit die 3 Julii, Anno 1617.

Hæc tibi, Nupta brevis quondam monumenta dicavit, Et dedit insculptas, Elizabetha, notas; Heu breve conjugium, mundi sperabitur ergo, In cælis post hac sponsus utriq, novus.

In the north window of the chancel were these two escutcheons with a figure kneeling in a blue robe above in large Saxon characters, mentioned in the Natural History and Antiquities of the County of Surrey, vol. iv., published 1718.

Robert: de Sacra,

On a black marble gravestone in capitals, was this inscription :---

Here lyeth the Body of John Harris Batchelor of Divinity Prebend of Herriford, late Rector of this Parish, who departed this life the 26 of October Anno Domini 1678 aged 70 years.

On a black marble gravestone near the former, in capitals, partly obscured by the alter rails, was this inscription :---

Here lyeth the body . . . Barbara Harris daughter . . . John Harris, late Rector . . . this Parish who departed this life 8 day of August Anno Domini 1678 aged 12 years.

but both stones have disappeared.

On the south side of the altar, on a brass plate, under the figures of a man and a woman, is this inscription :---

Johannes Ballard, qui obiit xxi Martii anno Dñi MCCCCLxiij et Margareta uxor ejus quorum animabus propicietur Deus. Amen.*

In the east window are some remains of figures, as of S. Catherine, S. Paul, some rays of glory and angels now removed to the top of the east window of the South Chapel.

In the east window of the Wessels, i.e. Alderstead chancel, is gules, 3 wheatsheaves argent and the word Ballard.⁺ S^t George killing the dragon, bearing on a shield argent, a cross gules and near him a Virgin crowned. In the next window are two female saints. In another window are the portraitures of S^t Catherine and S^t John Baptist.

There are some stones let into the east wall of the south chantry, and engraved with the arms and crests of Southcote and Waldegrave and the initials S.M.S. These stones were placed in their present position by Sir William Jolliffe, afterwards first Baron Hylton. They were found at Albury in the foundations of an addition to the barn, and were probably portions of the old manor house. The initials probably refer to John Southcote, who by a deed dated 14 Oct. 1588 settled this estate on his marriage with Magdalen, daughter of Sir Ed. Waldgrave, and left issue, John buried at Merstham 15 Dec. 1586, and Edward of Witham; his father John Southcote made a Justice of the King's Bench in 1562, purchased the manor of Albury from Leonard Dannett in 1578, and died 18 April 1585, aged 74, and was buried at Witham.

* Removed to the chancel.

† Nicholas Best in 1678 sold Alderstead to Joseph Reeve, who died 1689. His son John R. died 1696, leaving his sister Sarah Wessell his heir, who married secondly George Ballard, and settled this estate on him. He died 1746. Manning & Brayes, Surrey. xxiv

A true Copy To Mr Robert Ballard & Mr Anthony Heath

Churchwardens of the parish of Merstham upon a dispute among the people about their Seats and Pews.

GENTLEMEN

I must desire of you, that, for the quiet of this parish, and for the honour due to the Worship of Almighty God, you woud, according to your Duty & to the power Lodged by Law in your hands, take immediate Care, that those Farmers who pay to Church & poor may have the quiet & peaceable possession of the several Seats and pews in the Church, of Right belonging to their respective Farms; that the people may be duely accomodated, without any illegal additions or alterations whatsoever, either in the Church or Chancel, and without any Unnecessary new Charges upon this poor parish: there being to our certain knowledge still room enough and to spare for all the Congregation. Of this it was thought proper, thus to give due notice by Letter & to register a true Copy hereof, in the parish-Book, that who-ever woud pretend hereafter to give any farther Trouble, shoud do it, at their peril.

I am Gentlemen

your most humble Servant

and charge the Church-Wardens and Overseers of the poor of this parish at their peril to put the Laws of this Land in due execution against all scandalous disorderly lawless lewd persons, And those especially who have been harboured here contrary to law and who, tho' not of this parish, have yet been suffered to come in & live in this parish for years together as man & wife with children and growing families chargeable to the people & defrauding them of their goods-And this I do find myself the more still obliged in duty to recommend & press & charge upon you thus at your peril upon this occasion, be-cause if former Church-Wardens and Overseers of the poor had been regularly & duly put in mind eight or nine years agoe to have took the proper care of the business of our own parish, then we shoud not have exposed ourselves & our friends by going to law at this time rashly & unadvisedly with another parish & beside our own, not have put them neither to so much needless charges which our next care ought to be to cast about and endeavor prevent falling at length still heavy upon our own selves.
